Monthly report as of March 31, 2024

Past performance is not indicative of future results. The value of investments and income derived from investments may rise as well as fall. Future returns are not guaranteed, and a loss of principal may occur. Key Information Documents and prospectuses are available at www.sebgroup.lu

The global broad equity markets saw positive developments during the month, with some countries excluded, and bond yields were unchanged at slightly lower. Inflation figures in the United States remained high, and private consumption and the labour market showed no signs of slowing down. The Bank of Japan raised interest rates after a continued rise in inflation and a wage round that resulted in large pay increases. Despite small steps towards normalizing monetary policy, the yen weakened sharply, mainly against the US dollar. China delivered new, rather ambitious, growth targets for the year with no sustained signs of recovery so far. Statements from the US Federal Reserve (FED) towards the end of the month gave clear signals that interest rate cuts are not forthcoming. The European Central Bank (ECB) kept its key interest rate unchanged, however, with a lowered inflation forecast paving the way for future cuts. Despite a clear reassessment of the pace of interest rate cuts by several central banks, led by the FED, the equity market climate maintained a positive tone during the period.

The Fund performed positively during the period in absolute terms expressed in euros, outperforming its benchmark index. At the sector level, the overweight in the utilities sector contributed most to the relative performance, while the underweight in the energy sector had a negative impact. It was mainly exposure to currency-sensitive companies and sustainable companies that contributed positively, while exposure to companies that promote the UN's climate goals and companies with revenues from solar power had a negative impact. At company level, the overweight in Carlisle Cos Inc made the largest positive contribution, while the overweight in Erg Spa had a negative impact on the relative performance.

The Fund's objective is to make a long-term contribution to sustainable positive impact from a climate target perspective. To achieve this, the climate-related parts of the fund company's proprietary sustainability model are applied. The fund will invest in business models that actively contribute to climate change mitigation and adaptation.

The fund's investment policy

This actively managed fund invests in equities of companies from anywhere in the world, with no limit on company size or sector, including emerging markets. The fund aims to increase the value of your investment over time, while contributing to a positive climate impact that helps fulfil the long-term objective of the Paris agreement. The investment team identifies companies that contribute to its sustainable objective, such as mitigation of or adaption to climate change. To identify these companies, a separate sustainability model based on ESG criteria is used. These can be about contributions to the UN's sustainability goals or that the companies' activities are in line with the EU's taxonomy for sustainable investments. Some examples are companies involved in renewable energy, energy efficiency, and significant carbon emission reduction in line with the Paris Agreement. The fund then uses a quantitative strategy to select companies believed offer the best potential for long-term capital growth. The fund seeks to influence companies on sustainability issues through active ownership. For detailed information about the funds sustainability approach, see the fund's Sustainability Information document on the Prices & Facts section of our website.
